

CDC APPROVES RESPIRATOR USE

The CDC has approved the use of N95 disposable respirators by persons who may be at particular risk for contracting H1N1 Influenza A. FDA has authorized release of these respirators from the Strategic National Stockpile, making them available to the general public by way of the various State and Public Health authorities. Clear and explicit instructions on how to use this respirator can be viewed at <http://www.cdc.gov/h1n1flu/eua/pdf/n95instructions.pdf>.